About Our Chef Jackets

We have worked with the De Berkel brand for many years. They create high quality, great value jackets in a variety of styles that are designed to withstand the demands of the kitchen.

They have a long history in clothing manufacture and are considered one of the world's foremost experts in corporate clothing. Their strict control on production quality ensures that all garments meet the rigorous standards by which the company has established its reputation; and its knowledge of the world textile market allows it to source the best materials to withstand the exacting demands of corporate workwear.
